

Headless Man: Is This Your Forest?
By Zilia Nguyen

It might belong to the armadillo who has syphilis and lice?
Or the toucan mother who teaches her children German before dinner.

Maybe the sickly snakes who practice pilates near the Marborg.

You know those beetles who bake those foreign chocolates?
No, you're right, I don't think it's theirs.

Remember the rabbits who beg for jelly beans near the Irish pub?
Actually, I don't know whose land this is,

But I'd like to think that it belongs to the trees
Who have hemorrhoids and VD.

Also, did you hear that the cherry tree is now an amputee?
